THE CULTIVATION OF FOOD CROPS ON ESTATES

It is believed that some managers have hesitated to follow the advice given in the Malayan Agricultural Journal of June, 1939 to plant food crops among young rubber because of the fear that soil structure might be impaired.

The matter has been referred to the Director, Rubber Research Institute of Malaya, who considers that risk of damage is slight provided that proper precautions are taken against soil erosion and that the soil is not left bare longer than is absolutely necessary.
